

Abstract

The issue of women is one of the most important issues that have preoccupied thinkers for many years, because women have been and continue to play a large role in drawing up many issues of interest to society, in addition to being half the society is the mother and sister, wife and son.

Hence the subject of our study on the reality of Iranian women in a period of time witnessed radical Political changes the title of the study was " Iranian Policy Changes variables 1900-1941 (The role of women as model) ".

The research concluded that the policy adopted by any country casts a shadow over the reality of women Iranian Women suffered for from Political, social and religious constraints during the Qajar rule.

Openness and liberation as a result of the westernization Policy of the shah Reza Pahlavi has contribution to the creation of a generation of Iranian women after 1925 enjoyed more Political and social rights that women who lived under the kajar this was a period in the life of Iranian women.